

$3.00

Winter, 1981
Vol. 6, No. 2

The Odyssey
House
Parents'
Programme

The Social Pathology of Cot Death

Parents of Intellectually handicapped children
— How they are told

'In care'
— Kill or cure
Families, children
and Alcoholism

---

IN THIS ISSUE

---

Australian Child and Family Welfare
(QUARTERLY)

EDITORIAL	2
Margarita Frederico
THE SOCIAL PATHOLOGY OF COT DEATH	3
Alan Williams.
Alan Williams explores the mystery of cot death and identifies the difficulties faced by bereaved parents.
PARENTS OF INTELLECTUALLY HANDICAPPED CHILDREN — HOW THEY ARE TOLD.	6
Toni Meek.
This paper describes a study involving sixteen parents who indicate how they were told of their child's disability, and how this affected their perceptions of the disability. In the same study, the author discusses with social workers ways they would approach parents in this situation.
'IN CARE' — KILL OR CURE	12
Rosemary Crossley.
The author gives her impression of the institutional care given to children with disability.
FAMILIES, CHILDREN AND ALCOHOLISM	14
Maurie Hasen.
This article explores alcoholic abuse, with focus on the alcoholic person's family. The author discusses the symptoms and effects which can be observed in a family when a parent is a problem drinker.
TREATMENT OF ADDICTED PARENTS AND THEIR CHILDREN: THE ODYSSEY HOUSE PARENTS' PROGRAMME.	18
Judith Tenenbaum.
This article examines help which can be given to support the family when the parent is a drug abuser. Judith Tenenbaum discusses the treatment programme at Odyssey House, with particular focus on the building of the parent-child relationship.
REGULAR FEATURES
BOOK REVIEWS	23
LIST OF BOOKS RECEIVED FOR REVIEW	29
POT POURRI	30
BUREAU NEWS	(CENTRE)